

British & Irish Underwater Photography Competition 2018

This competition engages the British and Irish underwater photography community in a one day competition shoot out. It is accessible to people who live and dive at different locations around Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Northern Ireland and England. The competition includes all who dive in and around England, Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland, including the Isle of Man, the Channel Islands, the Isles of Scilly and the other 5000 or so other islands around our shores that are bounded by the Atlantic Ocean, the English Channel and the North Sea.

The judges this year were Paul Colley, Damien McGuirk and Susannah Snowden-Smith.

A late August/ early September on-the-day multi-location competition format reduces the travel and cost burden for competitors, whilst at the same time encouraging a level of participation commensurate with a true championship. The date for 2019 is Sat 7th September.

Macro winner and Champion - Trevor Rees

Judge Paul Colley: This image took top marks from two out of the three judges and second place from the third judge, so emerged after only one round of voting as a very clear and worthy winner of the competition. The title British and Irish Underwater Photography Champion 2018 goes to Trevor Rees.

Wide angle winner - Trevor Rees

Judge Susannah Snowden-Smith: Great job capturing the atmosphere, with the wreck framing the diver in both the background and foreground. It would have scored even more if the light had been shining right at the fish, and/or the fish was pointed into the scene instead of swimming out of it. But a good job balancing strobe light, natural light and torch light.
